Everybody's Volcano
Degrees of Ignorance
They Fear Religion
Have It—Advertise It

—By Arthur Brisbane

(Herald, 1922, by Star Co.)
Mt. Aetna is in violent eruption, lava flowing down all sides of the crater, inhabitants fleeing from their homes. Earthquakes accompany the eruption.

Great eruption is expected soon at Mt. Vesuvius. Volcanoes that have hurled cities in the past may do it again. Yet peasants still build their homes on the slopes of the dangerous mountains. A great city lies just below it. Experience teaches nothing, and we wonder.

We need not wonder. For all civilized races at this moment are living on the slope of an infinitely worse volcano, which is WAR. We have come through one eruption that cost hundreds of billions of dollars, millions of lives. And we have learned as little from that as the peasants of Vesuvius learn from the hard-baked lava streams of the past.

In the United States a million and a half cannot speak English. Twelve years ago nearly three million were unable to speak English. This shows that foreigners "Americanize" themselves more than have we. Nothing can do for them. In addition to the million and a half that cannot speak English, there are more than thirty millions that cannot speak English semi-correctly.

There is no reason for looking down upon those that as yet do not speak the English language, in view of the fact that the number of our native-born, unable to read and write, is greater than the number of foreign-born unable to speak our language.

The Russian Greek Church, without its consent, will supply its treasures in gold, silver and precious stones to help the starving. In the Cathedral of St. Peter at Petrograd, one single sacred image of solid gold wears a necklace of enormous blue-white diamonds and decorated with more than three hundred other diamonds, more than six hundred rubies, fifteen hundred pearls, etc.

The sacred golden thrones are to be melted, and the jewels sold to buy food. The hold that religion has upon the masses in Russia is shown by the fact that Bolshevism has waited so long before seizing the treasures of the church. Those that control religion evidently attach no value to religious belief, since they post up signs which read, "Religion is the opium of the people," that, although they do not respect religion, they fear it—seeing it outlive government through the ages.

Rome gentlemen at Washington criticized the advertising of Lasker, head of the U. S. Shipping Board. Lasker, who knows as much about advertising as anybody in America, said that the way to make shipping a success, or anything else a success, is to advertise it. Those that criticize him by the terms in the advertising done in this country by the Canadian Pacific Railroad. They have good ships, short trips to Europe, plus the brains to know that advertising is profitable. For one advertisement, in one newspaper, they paid more than ten thousand dollars. And they got their money back ten for one, and more.

What to have what people want, then to LET THEM KNOW IT THROUGH ADVERTISING, is the secret of success. The old way was to let the people find it out gradually and slowly, in time for your grandson to get rich. The new way is to have it TODAY and make everybody know it TO-MORROW, or, if possible, this afternoon.

January made a new record in the number of bankruptcies. The number of firms that failed that month broke all records of the United States. But that is not surprising. The whole world has been on fire. It has happened that the robberies, wars, earthquakes, everything else broke all records.

At a great fire you sometimes see miserable creatures outside the building blazing to window. They hang for a certain length of time, one by one, then all drop. The whole world has been on fire. It has happened that the robberies, wars, earthquakes, everything else broke all records.

CREW REBELLED AS PERIL OF SHIP CREW

Captain of Schooner Prefers
No Charges Against Men
Upon Reaching Here

Bringing with her a sea-flavored sail of mutiny, shipwreck and battle with rising wind and sea, the steam ship Pennsylvanian arrived in Boston today, carrying the crew of the schooner
er. Hiramson, accused of firing Round Shot, Nantucket Sound.

The story of the ill-fated schooner was told by Elmer Carlson, former engineer in charge of the pumps and deck winches on the Hiramson.

"We left New York for Norfolk about three weeks ago," explained Carlson.

"On the way down we found the ship was leaking badly and the constant operation of her pumps kept the old water afloat."

"The captain and I were the only white men on board. In Norfolk, Virginia, Hiramson left the ship and a Captain Simmons took his place. The Hiramson found out the condition of the Hiramson and learned that we were bound for Boston with a cargo of 1,400 tons of soft coal he said could
NEW CAPTAIN APPOINTED.

"Then the owners appointed the first mate, Richardson, to take command."

"The crew of seven learned that Simmons had refused to work the ship across and the reason and demanded their discharge."

"After some talk Richardson promised that he would take the Hiramson up to New York and dry dock her before attempting to make the Atlantic passage."

"With this understanding we started north. That was last Friday afternoon."

"Monday the crew began to get suspicious and when they spotted Nantucket Shoals Lightship and recognized her, the mutiny started and refused to do any more work."

"Then at half past four o'clock
Tuesday morning we struck with a terrible crash on Middle Ship Shoal."

"We managed to launch the life-boat, and to rig a jury mast and escape of thousands for miles. For eight hours we were in that boat fighting with the waves and the rising wind. To make matters worse a dense fog came up."

PASSED LIGHTSHIP.

"In the dark and the fog we ran past the Great Round Head Lightship."

"But after we passed her the fog lifted a little and we caught sight of her light. Then we doused our binnacle sails and began rowing back."

"After we got to the ship our troubles were ended."

"Captain Richardson preferred no charges against the men of his crew and no arrests were made."

'ALCOHOL' ONLY WATER, JURY IS TOLD

Manchester, N. H., Man Says North Enders Cheated Him Out of $1,400

A jury in Superior Criminal Court today eyed with interest six five gallon cans marked alcohol. They were evidence in the joint case of Minnie Antonio and Penny Pratt of Hanover street, charged with victimizing Samuel Martel of Manchester, N. H., out of $1,400. Martel testified that he contracted with the men last November to purchase 240 gallons of high proof alcohol. They said him water, he said, "I paid them $1,400 when the cans were delivered," he testified. "Did you sample it?" he was asked. "Yes," he replied. "It was just as advertised."

"You must each can contained alcohol," he testified. A patrolman stepped forward and found the top from one of the cans. Running from the small cup to the bottom of the can was a metal tube. This, it was testified, had contained alcohol, surrounding the tube in each can was four and nine-tenths gallons of water. With a test lock at the containers, London, March 29 (By International News Service).—Former Emperor Karl of Austria, who is ill of double pneumonia in his exile on Madeira Island, was being kept alive early today by administrations of oxygen, according to an exchange telegraph despatch from Lisbon.

The despatch added that it was unlikely that the former ruler would recover. Former Empress Zita is at her husband's bedside. A Contingent News despatch from Vienna says that Professor Deig, one of the foremost physicians in Austria, has left for Portugal. His departure is being paid by private persons. WIFE JAILED IN TANGLE OVER TWO BABIES

Told Husband They Were Her Own; State Officers Start an Inquiry

Lawsonport, Ind., March 28.—Mrs. Helen Libby, 41 years old, wife of a traveling salesman employed by a Chicago concern, was placed in jail pending investigation by State Welfare officers into the manner in which she obtained two babies, both less than three months old.

She was alleged to have told her husband the children were theirs. Mrs. Libby admitted she obtained the babies from a man named "Peter" in Chicago last week. They were returned to that city by officials. Two other children, claimed by the woman as her own, were placed in an orphanage here to await disposition by the court.

She said she took the children because of her love of babies. She said her husband was absent from home at his work most of the time and that she expected to trouble in perpetrating the crime. Her husband is scheduled to arrive home April 1.

WOMAN, 4 MEN ON STRANDED BARGES

Craft Go Aground Near East-end of Canal When Lost by Fog

A woman and four men were cast on the beach by the wind when the tug John J. Sullivan, Jr., and Calverne, both of the Hughes Line of New York, grounded in a soft breeze and pounding surf off the eastern entrance to the Cape Cod Canal today.

Captain C. J. Sullivan and his crew of the Cape Cod Coast Guard station stood by to render the stranded craft any needed assistance. They hoped to float the barges without damage.

The barges, with two men on each, and the captain's wife on the Mulqueen, left Boston in tow of the tug Colonel John Taylor, bound for New York.

The breeze freshened from the northeast and the sea became rougher, making towing difficult. The Mulqueen parted near the stern of the tug and the barges went adrift. The Mulqueen grounded not far south of the Coast Guard station, and the Calverne a mile or so farther down the coast. The Coast Guard crew turned out, but there was no need to take the crews off the barges.

The tug will attempt to pass another hauler to the barges today and haul them off. Captain Sullivan reports that the wind has moderated and the craft are in no danger.

JAPANESE GIRL AT WELLESLEY IS BRIDE

Attaches From Embassy Attend Colorful Ceremony in College Chapel

A lovely almond-eyed bride, with the tint of the cherry of her native land reflected in her bright lips and cheeks, slipped down the aisle of the famous Houghton Memorial Chapel at Wellesley College late today and was married to her sweetheart from far off Japan.

She was Miss Kikue the of Tokyo, a student at Wellesley. The bridegroom was Satoru Asami, a student at Columbia University and graduate of the University of Tokyo.

When thirty Wellesley college girls broke into song in the chapel's choir loft as the ceremony was concluded the most fashionable Japanese wedding ever celebrated in New England came to its picturesque end.

Not in all the history of Wellesley College social events has anything like this new slight from romance-loving girls than the beauty of the said old chapel today. It was a flower-banked sanctuary of such Easter-tinted loveliness to quicken the pulse of the girls.

Through it moved the little Orient, all in the garb of her native land, preceded by chubbier-faced Nipponese flower girls, a ring bearer and other attendants, the emcees of their silk and satin costumes reflecting richly in the soft light of the church.

Dignified attaches from the Japanese Embassy at Washington, international princes from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other eastern cities sat in solemn dignity as the service was pronounced.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Samuel H. Murlin, assisted by the Rev. Stanley Fisher.

The bride was given away by her American fiancée, Professor Sophie C. Hart, head of the English composition department at Wellesley. She was attended by five bridesmaids, Japanese students friends from Wellesley and Dana Hall.

The best man was a Japanese fellow student of the bridegroom, a Wellesley student acted as usher.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY Cabaret and Supper Will Be Features of "Why Not"

By BETTY ALDEN.

WHY not be on time at "Why Not," the musical comedy being given by society folk at the Boston Opera House tomorrow night? For the curtain will rise absolutely and positively sharp at 8:15, and from what we have heard of "Why Not," every bit of the show is much too good to be missed.

As we have said before, practically the entire social "who's who" here has been working in some capacity or another for the success of this huge charity affair in aid of the Infants' Hospital. Those who have not been actively connected with "Why Not" are at any rate planning to attend the show, and there is no one to doubt the fact that one of the most brilliant assemblages of the entire season will gather at the Boston Opera House for the affair.

Those who are taking the leading roles in "Why Not" besides Mrs. A. Lynde Cochrane are Mrs. Frederick J. Bradley, Jr., the former Josephine deGersdorff of New York; Mrs. Gordon Means, Mrs. John E. Thayer, Jr., Messrs. Charles Arthur Clarke, Jr., George Peabody Gardner, Jr., B. Nelson Hamilton, "Pete" Stowell, Agnes Craig and Reginald Foster, whose bride, the former Frances Hoar, will give one of the featured dancing numbers of the evening with her sister, Louis Hoar.

But "Why Not," which as everyone knows, was written by Mrs. Hendricks Hallet Whitman, will not be the only number on the program for the evening's entertainment. Between the acts of the musical comedy there will be a cabaret, in charge of Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr., who has a corps of able assistants. Supper will also be served at the affair, and for this feature a select coterie of young girls have been secured as waitresses. The whole affair will end up with dancing on the stage, for which a nominal charge will be asked.

Of those who have taken boxes for the occasion are: Messrs. Oliver Ames, Edward Conningham, Allen Curtis, Edward Dodge, Edward J. Holmes, Robert Lovett, Nathaniel Thayer, John S. Lawrence, Frank B. Bennet, Thomas B. Gannett, Sewell H. Fossenden, Rodman P. Snelling, Edward Cunningham, Jr., Anne Hollingsworth, Henry P. King, Robert F. Clark, Arthur Blake, Philip Stockton, Lester Leland, Rodolph Agassiz, George Swift, Francis P. Sears, Stoughton Bell, William Whitman and Miss Fanny Osgood.

The reluctance with which members of the so-called "Winter colony" at Palm Beach are wending their way Northward is quite pronounced. A goodly portion of the smart set, sojourning here, in fact, planning to remain at the North-east resort well into April, and even May.

Mrs. Charles F. Choate of Boston will not return North until about the middle of next month, while others of this group are Mr. and Mrs. A. Kimball Todd (Mrs. Lincoln Peabody) and the latter's daughter, Miss Constance Todd, all of whom are well known along the North Shore, where they spend their summers at Beverly Farms. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Todd took place at Palm Beach, some months ago, and was a very quiet affair.

Others who are making a long season of it at the resort are Mr. and Mrs. John M. L. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. David McCulloch, Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Love, Mr. and Mrs. E. Clarence Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Rima Wyeth, Mrs. Agnes Thomas, Mrs. J. J. Fred Pierson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Work.

Before returning to their homes in the North, many of those who regard Palm Beach as their favorite "stamping ground" for the cooler months are leasing or releasing cottages here for next year. I understand that Mrs. Choate will again occupy Spray Cottage in the Breakers group next season.

Although the Breakers will close on April 4, those who plan to make a longer sojourn are engaging quarters at the various inns there. Among the Palm Beach, Mrs. Marshall Field of the North Shore Summer colony has left the Florida resort and will spend the Easter season at her home in Washington and Sixteenth street.

BORAH TO TAKE TREATY ISSUE TO PEOPLE

Will Speak Against Four-Power Pact in Campaign of Senate Partners

Washington, March 30.—Senator William E. Borah is not going to drop his fight against the four-power Pacific treaty just because he and his other opponents were unable to prevent its ratification by the Senate. Borah is preparing to carry into this year's congressional campaign the issue of whether or not the treaty involves the United States in an entangling alliance with Great Britain, France or Japan. He is planning to take that issue straight to the American people in the hope he can persuade them to record the pact as he and Senators Johnson, LaFollette and Francis were facing stiff opposition to their rejection. Secretary Hoover, Senator Johnson's arch political foe, is reported seeing to organize California's anti-treaty campaign.

In Wisconsin, LaFollette has a better political enemy in Senator Lusk, who has become one of the treaty's chief spokesmen in the Senate.

Old Moses Parker Building
Destroyed With Loss of $8,000

The explosion of a still in the attic of the old Moses Parker house, a ten-room building, on Lowell street, Wakefield, is believed to have caused a fire that destroyed the house to

The blaze had gutted much head work and was bursting through the roof before it was discovered. When the firemen arrived the top part of the house was enveloped in flames. The firemen who battled their way into the burning structure at once found the remnants of the exploded still. Several gallons of mash and about fifty bottles of moonshine were scattered about.

The fire swept the entire house, causing a loss estimated at $5,000. The place was occupied by the family of John J. Magua.

Federal prohibition authorities were notified of the presence of the still in the burned house and an investigation is being made. No arrests have been made.

Success and Progress —Through Confidence and Service

Twenty five years ago N. Sallinger started in the credit business with a broad and high conception of duty towards the credit buyer. He had vision, ideals—and as subsequent events have proven he had integrity of purpose and keen foresight, all of which have materialized in a record of achievement far beyond his greatest expectations.

A quarter of a century in the credit business, planning, organizing, building, improving—establishing a credit service for the people that is now eminently superior to any ever recorded in the history of the credit business. A notable achievement in the annals of Boston's big business houses.

His initial thought, his basic purpose was to open a line of credit on the department and other reliable cash stores for people who could afford to pay their bill only in small weekly payments. Now he succeeded in helping this class of people with his now famous order check has since been written into Boston's business history.

The Sallinger organization with its hundreds of intelligent men and women is entitled to no small part of the credit for building up this wonderful business. The ability and courtesy of this staff has pleased and retained for this house the trade which is now exclusively its own.

During these twenty-five years he has contributed his best to the needs of the credit service, he has cultivated the confidence and respect of the people; he has maintained this confidence and respect by the practice of business methods which have assured to his clientele the greatest possible value and the fairest and most considerate treatment.

His methods have broken the bonds of prejudice and convention against credit buying—and now thousands of men and women are using his service who never before bought on credit.

No other single credit store operator has played quite the spectacular role of leadership or won the same phenomenal success as did the head and contributing spirit of this organization — N. Sallinger; who has in the past quarter of a century built up by far the greatest business of its kind not only in New England but also in the United States.

During our Silver Jubilee we are offering special inducements to order check customers that they may participate in our 25th Anniversary Celebration with profit to themselves. Substantial price reductions in all our own departments also now in effect to celebrate this event. The public is cordially invited to call.

THE (bolshevik) systematically delaying matters until they receive some bribe, it becomes necessary to get orders for more than the actual number of population in the institution, so that some "extras" may be left for bribes as well as for the hungry friends of the "economic manager" of the institution in charge of the supplies.—From the article by Emma Goldman

THE SHOEMAKER LOVED THE WORLD OVER

Hans Christian Andersen—1805-75

A Danish shoemaker and the son of a shoemaker. His fairy tales made the whole world kin. It is not at all difficult to picture Andersen stitching a pair of child's shoes, while his imagination hears the clatter of tiny feet to come up and down the stairs of a wonderful castle in fairyland.

Perhaps you don't Appreciate your Shoe Repairman as you should

YOU may have noticed that the shoe repairman never seems to have much time to himself.

A busy man responsible for one of the soundest economies of your family life. The economy of making each shoe dollar do the work of two.

Don't forget that he was the man who first gave you the chance to try out a pair of rubber heels.

A new thing twelve or fifteen years ago, but now worn by 75% of all American men and women.

In this very matter of rubber heels your repairman is doing you still another service.

He has sorted out all the makes of rubber heels, to find a heel that gives his customers the greatest wear and has the best appearance. The utmost comfort on the foot.

This is the reason why so many shoe repairmen are using U. S. Spring-Step Rubber Heels.

The U. S. Spring-Step Rubber Heel is made by the United States Rubber Company—the largest and oldest rubber organization in this country.

The only manufacturer that grows its own rubber in any considerable quantity.

The U. S. Spring-Step Heel is made by people who know rubber.

Who feel a long-standing responsibility for delivering maximum service in rubber products of all kinds.

And whose production of rubber heels is actuated by this sense of obligation.

U. S. Spring-Step Rubber Heels cost no more than any other rubber heels.

So the next time you get a pair of shoes from the shoe repairman with U. S. Spring-Step Heels—remember that he put them there, not because he made any better profit, but because of his feeling of responsibility to you.

The only company in this country that grows its own rubber in any considerable quantity.

Settling Up, Settling Down

More of It to Come

Copyright, 1922, Blue Company

Attorney General Daugherty, practical man in office, says the nation is settling up after the war, and the people are settling down. There is less hilarity he thinks and less crime than recently. Daugherty thinks this is encouraging. There will be a great deal less hilarity before the settling up process is finished, by this country and others, that were recently proving their patriotism by shovelling out billions.

The best sign for those that want stability in the United States is the ability of the people to endure hardship without dangerous complaint.

The soldiers, after being promised everything, get nothing, and take it patiently. Four or five million men are out of work and make no effective protest. The safety of the United States is in the docility of its people, equalled nowhere else outside of India, that so greatly amazed Lord Northcliffe.

Must the Wild Birds Go?

All Animal Life Will End Eventually

Copyright, 1922, Blue Company

The friends of wild birds say that draining swamps "menaces migratory birds." That may be, but draining swamps does away with mosquitoes. And if the birds must go with the mosquitoes, then the birds must go. An expert shows that one hundred mosquitoes lay ten billion trillion eggs from April 1 to September 15—the hundred and their descendants presumably. If the mosquitoes were less incompetent, less able to survive, they would fill the air and men could not breathe in the middle of the summer. They implant poison, malaria, yellow fever in men's blood.

It is too bad about the birds, but eventually all life except human life will disappear from this planet, everything from microbes to elephants will go. And the sooner the better, probably.

Worst Infectious Disease

Not Typhus, Smallpox or Leprosy

Copyright, 1922, Blue Company

What is the most dangerously infectious disease? It is not the bubonic plague, which you must swallow, or yellow fever that comes only from a mosquito's sting, or the sleeping sickness that you get from the tse-tse fly, that has bitten the crocodile's tongue. It is not smallpox, measles, or scarlet fever, but the ordinary influenza, to which we all pay so little attention.

The Health Department of New York State gives the facts concerning a scab, at which ONE boy with influenza infected forty out of fifty-one people with whom he came in contact.

And fathers and mothers say of a child thus infected, "It is only just a cold, it won't amount to anything."

A cold soon spreads through the family. Every cold that you have weakens you permanently, every attack of influenza, grippé, means so much LESS resistance, so many FEWER years of life.

If your child has a cold, keep it from other children as though it had scarlet fever or smallpox. If you have a cold, keep away from your children.

The Turks Did Well

Coming Cold Strike, Etc.

Copyright, 1922, Blue Company

Many centuries ago the Turks took Constantinople and established a foothold in Europe. The cross came down and the crescent went up on St. Sophia, which was changed from a Christian church to a Mohammedan mosque.

After the big war it was believed that the Turk had been shaken back in Asia, and there was much sentiment about putting back the cross on St. Sophia.

But Turks FIGHT and when you fight in this civilization you get something.

Now Constantinople is to remain Turkish. Turkish rule over Asia Minor and parts of Thrace. England is to keep Mesopotamia. All things considered, for a beaten people, the Turks have not done badly.

The coal strike moves slowly forward. Vessels of the Shipping Board are asked to bring coal from Europe as ballast. Plenty of room for the ballast, as our high-priced money prevents shipping goods.

New York's longshoremen say they won't handle the coal. They may change their minds.

Government officials say they will find some way to supply coal and "prevent public suffering."

Mr. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor says big financiers controlling strikes and mine owners want the strike, and that is why we must have it.

All the little man sees is disaster approaching, clearly visible in advance, and nothing does about it.

The Reverend Dr. Guthrie, in his church, St. Mark's-in-the-Bowery, celebrated the Feast of the Annunciation with a dance. Young ladies with bare feet flooded with beautiful light paced slowly about, moving modestly dressed in long robes, bathed in blue light. The doctor is blamed for this exhibition in church. His reply is that religion is beautiful, the world is beautiful, and there is no reason for trying to make the church dismal.

It will be observed that the Catholic Church, which has retained beautiful costumes, processions, music and images, has held its own for nearly two thousand years.

Two men robbed a theatre last December; each took two thousand seven hundred dollars away in his pocket. They are arrested now and confess, and neither has a dollar. "Easy come, easy go" is a saying old and true. Gamblers and thieves do not prosper, whether they be little gamblers gathered to take from each other, or bigger gamblers watching the ticker.

Some that watch the ticker get money and keep it, of course. But they are not the GAMBLERS. They are those that tell the ticker what is shall say.

O'Brien Slander Denounced

While New District Attorney Must Expect This Sort of Thing, It Will Not Do for Him to Ignore It

The other evening District Attorney O'Brien of Suffolk County was introduced to a certain Council of the Knights of Columbus as its speaker for the evening. The gentleman who introduced him called the attention of those present to a report, which seemed to have the proportion of an organized slander, that Mr. O'Brien had left his church.

The presiding officer denounced this false report, and we believe that he called upon all those members present to make themselves a committee of one to combat the lie. This kind of subterranean attack upon men who are candidates for public office in Boston is becoming painfully frequent. The curious thing is that they are circulated about the very best Catholics—Catholics whose conduct has never required them to make public explanations nor their church to apologize for them.

Mr. O'Brien must expect this sort of thing, and he must grin and bear it. He must expect.

To hear the truth you've spoken

Twisted by knives to make a trap for fools.

He must expect to have everything he does in the District Attorney's office deliberately misrepresented by the cowardly whisperers. While he should not be disturbed at it, yet it will not do for him to ignore it.

The gullibility of men in Boston is bad enough with all their political experience, but the vast host of women voters without political experience will be very easily taken in by such stories unless some effort is made to turn them down and publicly contradict them from time to time. The trouble is that the scoundrels who start these stories you never can run down, nor can you often learn what stories they have started or who has heard them.

There must come a time in Boston when responsible people will not countenance these whisperings nor allow them to be poured into their ears.

Insurance Company's Reply

To an Editorial Published Recently on a Pending Insurance Question

The following is a reply to an editorial published last week on a pending insurance question:

The method of valuation in the insurance bill pending in the Senate is legal everywhere life insurance is written except here and in New York, and in New York a modification is made from the Massachusetts rule. Admittedly, the bill is actually sound and has the unqualified approval of the American Bar Association in its recommendation for a model insurance code made in 1918.

The present Massachusetts valuation law was adopted long after the older life insurance companies were formed and had accumulated a large business and, in most cases, a considerable surplus. In plain terms, this method of valuation makes it necessary for companies to pay for part of the expenses of new business from accumulated funds. The method recognized in this bill makes the new policyholder pay this cost at the beginning. Had the Massachusetts rule been generally enforced, life insurance business in America would have become intolerable, as it would have been confined to pre-established companies.

One method is as ethical, equitable and sound as the other. The difference in method of valuation is no test of the soundness of a company. This always depends upon management—skill and honesty. There are companies today which value under the method proposed in the pending bill that are stronger financially than companies which better returns to their policyholders than companies now qualified to do business in Massachusetts.

The situation is that nearly all the companies reserving under the present Massachusetts method are domiciled in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey. Nearly every other State in the Union has its own company or companies reserving under a method of valuation recognized in the pending bill. Massachusetts life companies are in no danger of being forced to policies already issued, and all their policies have been issued under the present Massachusetts method of valuation. It is entirely impracticable for a company to reserve on two such different methods of valuation. It is proposed to amend the bill by limiting the expenses of companies reserving under its terms. This has never been objected to and goes farther than Massachusetts has ever gone in protecting policyholders from excess expenses. Interstate company requires Massachusetts to deal fairly with companies of other States in return for the fair treatment of her own companies in cases where the insuring public is fairly treated and fairly compensated.

It is fairly written. The Boston American may reply to it later if, on receiving more light on the subject, the facts seem to warrant it.

Avoid All Violence

Mit Operatives On Strike and Their Employers Urged to Exercise the Greatest Restraint

The Boston American earnestly appeals to the mill operative on a strike and to their leaders to exercise the greatest restraint under any and all temptation to violate the law or to be guilty of any violence.

We also urge the employers to be equally careful that they do not, either through the police or through hired thugs or by any other method, wilfully or negligently provoke the men now on strike to violence. The method of provoking violence on the part of strikers in order to get public sympathy is rather old in this Commonwealth today and is dangerous because the public is becoming acquainted with it and will not readily believe that the guilt is all on the side of the workmen.

In any event, the leaders of the men on strike must know that violence plays into the hands of the employer always.

This is not to suggest that the strikers are any more guilty of violence than their employers, but they cannot conceal their responsibility for violence as can the employers.

Stars and Stripes

Life is an continuous battle race to the people who make it a habit to jump at conclusions.

Incidentally, let Mr. Henry Ford and his fellows of the fifty-dollar brigade take note that the Shroeders are Jews!

There has come forth a man among the Jews, does not towards building the ideal America of our dreams, can millions of rivers can contribute to an American malice can destroy.

It is a haunting menace of American life that we can so rarely command or expect the social service of men who have acquired a capital which provides them an ample income.

MEET THE RARE MAN WHO PAYS HIS DEBTS

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

YOU need not smile at this in harness—as it is vulgarly put—and to "ride the traces." Their business has become such a fixed habit, and the making of money or the acquisition and use of power such a passion, that they cannot bear to live without the economic Therefore, our politics, as a rule, is run as a profession or a business. We cannot often draft into service, even as mayors, the type of men whose successful administration of private affairs has proven their fitness for efficient handling of communal interest.

Accordingly, our cities are the crying shame of American life. Why should not our prosperous business men, particularly the men of Shroeder's impulse and determination to pay back to the community the obligation which we all owe to it?

Curious Notion

It is a curious notion—almost suggestive of eccentrics—that anybody who achieves a significant success in, in any vital sense, "self-made." No wonder, then, that such a man is prone to view his creator, I. e. himself.

We are all loaned out to one another. Not only the greatest, but also the humblest of us owe most of our social achievement and most of our joy and comfort to the help of all the rest of the Community.

It was precisely this that Mr. Shroeder felt when he uttered his sense of obligation to the community and determined to devote the rest of his life to paying back what he owed.

It is a decently aristocratic, his thinness of spirit, that it is so simple and matter-of-course a proceeding for him to consecrate himself as a social volunteer for the better of the hand of the Common Good.

Therefore, the reader has been with him asked to meet the rare man who pays his debt.

By his very nature he is the tribute of your respect is to give means of going and doing better. Even while you are busy with your present work, there are endless opportunities to make the general business of your own business.

By a few pieces of paper he can help to put the stratter and the exploit the parallel of demagogue-out of commission.

One of the outstanding characters is more faithful to the family than the family is to her. It is an ironical turn of circumstance, as possible in fact as in fiction, it is who who is in a position to fish them out of the mire of their earliest complications.

Letter to the Editor

The Girls

Editor Boston American: Here's to you, girls! Most of us red-blooded fellows like you better with a little rouge and powder than pale-looking after a hard day at the counter of the typewriter. Just so you don't neglect to take long walks, rake the leaves from the lawn and do everything possible to bring the natural color to your cheeks, there is no harm done.

Don't mind what the dyspeptic, cranky men have to say about you; here is nothing you do that can make real men stop loving you.

Go to it, girls—use all the art you have to make this dull, dreary world a little rosier and brighter. S. LARSON.

"A Little More" is an interesting story and exceptionally well told. William B. Maxwell has long ago earned his title to one of the best of modern English writers. This book will add a twist of the hand of fate, "what worlds away" they found themselves when the little more was speedily removed.
